HOW TO GET ROMANIAN CITIZENSHIP

Romania has been a member of the European Union since 2007. Following World War II, foreign migration to Romania rose rapidly, peaked as a result of notable political changes in the country, and then nearly completely decreased during the communist era. When Romania entered the European Union on January 1, 2007, this growth was made abundantly evident. Through the citizenship by descent program, a large number of persons with Romanian ancestry can now simply apply for EU citizenship and an EU passport in Romania. As the name implies, one of the most popular ways to become a Romanian citizen nowadays is to gain Romanian citizenship.
